Forging Peace: Where Do We Go From Here?

How was social change forwarded in the wake of Martin Luther King Jr.'s Assassination on April 4, 1968? How can we, in the current context, inform and sustain our activism? Nonviolence chooses love instead of hate, but is it possible to turn our anger at injustice toward making meaningful, positive change? What is our responsibility to help others better understand problems facing society and to build peace in peace? Rev. David Brown will explore these questions with participants.
